CONTENTS

Contents v

Contributors vii

Preface ix

Julia Bolton Holloway 1
Romancing the Chronicle

Nicholas Evans 15
The Irish Chronicles and the British to Anglo-Saxon Transition in Seventh-Century Northumbria

Sally Lamb 45
Evidence from Absence: Omission and Inclusion in Early Medieval Annals

Nicholas Sparks 63
The 'Parker Chronicle': Chronology Gone Awry

Thea Summerfield 85
Filling the Gap: Brutus in the Historia Brittonum, Anglo-Saxon Chronicle MS F, and Geoffrey of Monmouth

Alan Cooper 103
Walter Map on Henry I: The Creation of Eminently Useful History

Jane Roberts 115
Ældad's Judgement: An Episode in Laȝamon's Brut

Helen Fulton 137
Troy Story: The Medieval Welsh Ystorya Dared and the Brut Tradition of British History

Meredith Clermont-Ferrand 151
Joan of Arc and the English Chroniclers: Monstrous Presence and Problematic Absence in The Chronicle of London, The Chronicle of William of Worcester, and An English Chronicle 1377-1461

Sarah L. Peverley 167
Chronicling the Fortunes of Kings: John Hardyng's use of Walton's Boethius, Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde, and Lydgate's 'King Henry VI's Triumphal Entry into London'

Matthew Phillpott 205
The Compilation of a Sixteenth-Century Ecclesiastical History: The Use of Matthew Paris in John Foxe's Acts and Monuments

Anna Seregina 223
Religious Controversies and History Writing in Sixteenth-Century England

Marije Pots and Erik Kooper 239
Arthur. A New Critical Edition of the Fifteenth-Century Middle English Verse Chronicle